OUTLINES.

The news that Great Britain has agreed to the contentions of the United States regarding the New Foundland fisheries dispute has made the people and government of the colony furious, leading to threats of the colony's separation from the mother country; the London papers are also disgruntled and term it a Yankee bargain——Governor Taft shows anxiety over the factional troubles at Cienfuegos between the Cuban parties and is endeavoring to get them settled as he wants to include those who killed Gen. Villaneuvas in the proclamation of amnesty which he is soon to issue; he also proposes to give amnesty to the murderers of the rural guards, as he desires to get all old sores healed as quickly as possible——Yesterday two transports left Newport News with troops for Cuba, and two more will sail today with additional troops——The Spanish War Veterans began their meeting and encampment at Washrington yesterday, many representatives being in attendance from the South—The Panama Canal Commission yesterday decided that the government cannot dig the canal and it was agreed to have the work done by contract, President Roosevelt concurring in that conclusion——The machincs in the shops of the Southern Railway from Washington to New Orleans went out on strike yesterday——New York markets: Money on call firm, 3 3-4 to 4 per cent., ruling rate 4, closing bid and offered at 4; spot cotton quiet, 10.65; flour quiet and about steady; wheat firm, No. 2 red, 7 elevator; corn easy, No. 2, 54 1-2 elevator; oats firm, mixed, 67 1-2; rosin firm, strained common to good, 4.20.

It is said that whiskey will kill the cotton boll weevil. It will if he sticks to it.

An old adage says: Every man is the architect of his own fortune." It is a fact also that every man is the artificer of his own square deal.

The Coffin Trust has again put up the price of caskets but as long as an anti-trust man is able to raise a kick he won't have to pay the price.

The trades papers tell us that more carpets have been sold the past season than in the history of the country. This will give the fellows more chances to get the girls to walk out on the carpet with them.

We have been looking for it right along. Now comes a Texan who claims that he is "Charley Ross," the kidnapped boy of long ago, and that he is now going back to Pennsylvania to prove his identity. We hope Charley will make good, but he has been a long time coming to the scratch.

Women are getting to be inventors now. A new idea in plows has been duly protected in the Patent Office by a Georgia woman, while one in Ohio has brought to the attention of the world her claims in an improved car coupler. However, as an inventor a woman can never equal the inventions of a married man who labors to explain his curves to his inquiring wife.

William Randolph Headst says Charles E. Hughes is a corporation attorney and his campaign treasurer, Mr. Sheldon, is not only a director of twenty-one corporations but was notoriously connected with the Ship Building Trust collapse. Hughes says Hearst's motive is selfishness and his method intrigue. The campaign will no doubt become interesting when they introduce the evidence to prove the allegations set forth in the complaints.

The Charlotte Observer a few days ago made a great ado over the discovery of a negro who had been a member of the Legislature but is now making an honest living by laboring around town. The Observer didn't mean any harm by discovering a negro ex-legislator during a political campaign but Republicans are apt to believe there was some malice, apparent or implied, in uncovering this relict of of republicanism when it's only a few weeks till election day.

W. L. I. BAZAAR

Opening of Big Military Fete at Light Infantry Armory To-Night.

ALL IS IN READINESS

Feature This Evening Will Be Prize and Exhibition Drills By the Company—Special Musical Programmes Each Night.

The Wilmington Light Infantry Bazaar will open in a blaze of glory on the armory grounds of the company, on Market street, to-night at 8:30. Committees of both ladies and gentlemen have been industriously at work for several weeks on the arrangement and there is every reason to believe that success will crown their efforts beyond expectation. Six or eight booths have been constructed and appropriately decorated and with the setting of the sun this evening everything will be in readines for the grand fete.

The feature of the exercises tonight will be a competitive drill by the company for the officers' gold medal, offered each three months for the best drilled soldier. The contest promises to be very interesting indeed and will be followed by some exhibition work of a high order.

Another feature will be the musical programme which will be in charge of Mrs. Cameron F. MacRae and Mrs. E. K. Bryan. A number of more than passing interest on the programme will be an original song by a Wilmington young lady and dedicated to the company. It will be sung by a quartette composed of Mr. W. G. W. Krafft, Mrs. E. K. Bryan and Mr. and Mrs. Green Fenley. The musical features will be continued each night of the fair.

Another pleasant feature of each night of the carnival will be the Confederate tea served by the Daughters of the Confederacy on the second floor of the armory. The public is cordially invited to attend the tea and an opportunity will be given each evening for inspecting the Confederate museum in the building.

The bazaar will be all the "go" this week and all friends of the company and the general public are invited.

BUILD ON PRINCESS STREET.

Handsome Structure Next West of the Telephone Building.

The Central Carolina Construction Company, of Greensboro, N. C., which now has contracts for a number of very handsome structures in Wilmington, has been engaged by Messrs. Morris Bear & Bro., to erect for them on Princess street, next west of the Southern Bell Telephone office, a two-story brick building to conform in architecture to the building adjoining and owned by the same parties. The front will be of press brick and stone trimmings and will take the place of the two one-story buildings now on the lot. There will be two handsome stores on the first floor and the telephone company will occupy the second floors. It is expected that the work of removing the present buildings from the lot will begin in a day or two.

THE MAYOR'S DOCKET

Many Penitents Before the Usual Big Monday Police Court Session—One or two to Roads and to the Farm.

The Mayor had his usual heavy docket in the police court yesterday. Nearly a score of penitents graced the bench, a majority of them representing the harvest of the officers Saturday night when more or less disorder was in evidence. None of the cases was, however, important. Only one or two went out on the roads and only one was sent over to the higher court.

Willie Smith and Willie Jones, two young white boys charged with engaging in an affray near Front and Princess streets Sunday afternoon and arrested by Officer M. P. Newton, were given five days below. They were too young for more severe punishment.

—Louise Green, colored, arrested by Officer C. E. Wood for being drunk and disorderly on Fourth between Nun and Church streets, was given 30 days on the farm.

Robert Pickett, colored, arrested by Officer Leon George at Third and Davis streets, charged with firing a pistol in the city limits, was found not guilty of that charge, but was bound over to the higher court on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. He gave $25 bond.

John Suggs, Richard Crawford and Mary Crawford, a dusky trio from Strauss' alley were charged with disorderly conduct. The two men were let off with the costs and the woman, who appeared to have been the seat of all the trouble, was given 30 days on the roads.

Isaac and Laura Galloway, charged with disorder at Fourth and Green, and arrested by Officer T. G. Evans, were each fined $5 and costs.

James Jones, charged by Officer C. H. Tatum with being drunk and down, was let off with $5 including the costs. The same punishment was meted out to Morris Johnson arrested by Officer W. G. Brinkley at Front and Red Cros streets.

Timothy McCartney, a sailor charged with committing a nuisance on Front, between Dock and Orange streets, and arrested by Officer C. I. Shepard, was let off with the costs.

Chas. Galloway, charged with disorderly conduct on Second between Market and Dock, was let off.

Bryant Jones, Mack Cannon, Joseph Brown and Robert Townsend, illustrious knights of the cup and dice, were charged with gambling, but the exchange of currency could not be proved and the warrant was amended to disorderly conduct. They were each fined $5 and costs.

F. A. Berry, white, charged with disorderly conduct at Third and Hanover streets, was fined $20 and costs. He was represented by B. G. Empie, Esq., and was given time to pay up.

J. H. Porter, of Delgado, charged with a fight at Front and Princess streets Saturday night, was fined $5 including the costs. A negro in the same mix-up was found not to be the agressor and was discharged.

Collided With Car.

A buggy in which Mr. John J. Frederick, of Gaylord's Department Store, was driving on North Fourth street yesterday morning was struck by street car No. 17 in charge of Motorman Austin and Conductor Williams. The buggy was pretty well wrecked but fortunately neither the driver nor the horse were injured. The motorman claims that Mr. Frederick's failure to observe the sounds of warning was the cause of the accident, while Mr. Frederick is quite certain that no alarm was sounded.

Roof of Dwelling Burned.

The roof of the dwelling, No. 515 South Front street, owned by Maj. D. O'Connor and occupied by Mr. Thos. Sellers, was burned off by a fire which started Sunday morning. The roof of an adjoining dwelling, occupied by Mr. John Sellers, was also damaged. The aggregate loss by both fires was about $600. The Department responded to an alarm from Box 45 but the flames had gained considerable headway when the apparatus arrived.

Nail in His Foot.

Captain "Billy" Monroe, assistant chief of the Fire Department, is on crutches as the result of running a nail into his foot Saturday. It will be some days before he is able to report for duty again.

THE SUPERIOR COURT

Session Yesterday Uninteresting for Most Part—Appeal to Supreme Court in Horne Verdict of $12,000—Old Suit Re-Instated.

On account of the illness of Herbert McClammy, Esq., of counsel for the plaintiff, the $25,000 damage suit of Frank Meier, Admr. against the Consolidated Railways, Light and Power Company was continued yesterday in the Superior Court until the next term. The case had been peremptorily set for yesterday morning, a motion for continuance having been denied the defendant company on Saturday afternoon, and upwards of a hundred tales jurors were returned from which to select the panel for the trial of the cause, but it had to be reluctantly abandoned on account of the indisposition of Mr. McClammy, who is the chief counsel for Mr. Meier. The order of continuance was made soon after the assembling of court, but the talesmen were held over the day for the purpose of trying any other cases that might be reached. Associated with Mr. McClammy for the plaintiff are Messrs. Jno. D. Bellamy & Son, while counsel for the defendant company are Messrs. Davis & Davis and Bellamy & Bellamy.

About the only other proceeding of public interest in the court yesterday was a motion by defendant's attorneys in the case of Melvin Horne against the Consolidated Company asking that the verdict of $12,000 damages be set aside and a new trial given. This was overruled by Judge Jones, judgment was entered as of record and the defendant's attorneys excepted and took an appeal to the Supreme Court. Each side was allowed 30 days to file pleading and bond was fixed at $50.

During the morning City Attorney Bellamy and other counsel for the city made a motion for judgment according to the opinion of the Supreme Court in the case of City of Wilmington against ex-Judge E. K. Bryan and others involving back tax collections amounting to $1,076.53 and interest from September 1st. 1900 which was awarded the city in the controversy. Attorneys for the defendants entered a plea that in the suit the question of interest had been waived by the attorneys for the city during the progress of the suit, in an agreement that was entered into in regard to certain facts. This was resisted by the attorneys for the city and Judge Jones held that the interest amounting to something over $300 must be paid with the principal. Then the question of per cent. arose. The defendants contended that 4 per cent. should be paid while attorneys for the city claimed that 6 per cent. was the legal rate. This matter was left open but will probably be settled to-day as attorneys for the city will not agree to four per cent. unless it is shown that the money has been deposited intact in a savings bank during the time the matter has been in litigation and that the defendants have received no more than that from the use of same.

Few cases were tried during the day yesterday as the attorneys generally expected that the Meier case would be taken up and would occupy several days in which event they had not prepared for the calling of the docket sooner.

The damage suit of John Brown, administrator of the estate of the late George W. Price against the A. C. L. Railroad Company was allowed to be re-instated on the docket. Price was a well known colored magistrate of the county prior to 1898 and was killed on the yards of the company in this city near his office at Fourth Street Bridge about 1899. Suit was brought but for some reason it was non-suited. The attorneys have now had the case re-instated and it will likely come up for trial later. Other cases were disposed of yesterday as follows:

J. S. Potter vs. Annie V. Potter, divorce granted.

Louis Goodman, assignee, vs. J. C. Shepard; judgment $3.23.

Edmund Highsmith vs. Thos. A. Smith, judgment for non suit. This was a case in which Highsmith, who

HAMILTON MEETINGS

Series of Services at First Baptist Church Has Begun Most Auspiciously—Singing Led By Rev. Mr. Wakefield a Feature.

With every indication of a great outpouring of the spirit in Wilinmgton, the meetings at the First Baptist church by the distinguished young Baptist divine, the Rev. Dr. W. W. Hamilton, of Kentucky, began Sunday. He was heard with great interest at both services Sunday and again yesterday, morning and night. It is no exaggeration of the facts to say that Dr. Hamilton is fast winning the hearts of the people and ere the week is over a great revival of religion will be in progress. Dr. Hamilton has with him an able co-laborer in the person of the Rev. W. D. Wakefield, who is leading the soul-stirring music, which forms a most enjoyable part of each service.

Dr. Hamilton is not a sensational preacher. When the great Southern Baptist Convention met in Chattanooga last year it decided that the opportune moment had arrived for the appointment of a General Evangelist under the direction of the Home Mission Board. Dr. Hamilton was selected without opposition. The wisdom of this selection has been proved already. He is a reasonable man. Trained in the best schools of America, cultured, refined and conversant with the best thought of the day whether in secular or religious matters, he is eminently qualified to teach others the way to the higher life.

The services at the First church will be held daily at 10 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. and the public is most cordially invited. Christians of all denominations are asked to join in the work that many souls may be saved.

OBSERVE "UNIVERSITY DAY."

Gathering of Alumni in This City Next Friday Evening.

Leading members of the alumni of the University of North Carolina in this city met last night at the office of Marsden Bellamy, Jr., Esq., and set on foot definite plans for the celebration of University Day in Wilmington on Friday, the 12th inst. Mr. Benjamin Bell, Jr., was called to the chair and among those in attendance were Dr. Pride Jones Thomas, Louis Goodman, Marsden Bellamy, Jr., and Chas. C. Loughlin, Esqs., Messrs. E. P. Willard, J. W. Yates and Horace M. Emerson.

It was decided to observe the day with a smoker, probably at The Orton, on Friday evening. To this event the alumni of the University in Wilmington will be invited. There are 107 of these of record in the city and the chairman of the meeting would be glad to have the names of any others to all of whom cards will be sent for the smoker. Dr. E. K. Graham, asociate professor of English at the University or some other prominent member of the University faculty will be present to make an address upon the occasion. The object of the observation is to keep alive the University spirit among the alumni of the institution and the day is always fittingly observed by the loyal U. N. C. men of this city. The observance this year will be no exception to the general rule and a most pleasant affair is assured.

Funeral of Mrs. Williams.

Kelly, in this city, Saturday afternoon, was conducted from the residence, No. 910 North Fourth street, Sunday afternoon, Rev. Fred D. Hale, D. D., officiating. The interment was in Bellevue cemetery. The pall-bearers were Messrs. C. C. Rice, J. W. Scarborough, T. E. Snipes, T. Brown, C. A. Bradshaw and A. J. McKoy. Mrs. Williams leaves to mourn their loss three daughters and one son: Mrs. J. E. Kelly, of this city, Mrs. J. K. Howard, of Conway, S. C., and Mrs. J. A. Thompson, of Chadbourn, N. C., and Mr. Thomas H. Williams, of Sumter, S. C.

THE DEWELL IS LOST

Overturned Schooner at Southport Proves to Be Another Than First Supposed.

ALL HANDS WERE LOST

Derelict of R. D. Bidder Found Further Down the Coast—Wrecking Apparatus Arrives for Raising Fishing Steamer.

It developed yesterday upon recepit of a telegram to the Wilmington, Southport and Little River Transportation Company that the overturned derelict of a schooner towed in and beached by the tug Blanche just after the recent storm off this coast is not that of the R. D. Bibber as previously suppposed, but the schooner James D. Dewell, Capt. Hammond, lumber laden from Charleston to New York, from which it is now certain that the master and all hands aboard were lost. The telegram yesterday conveyed the information that the derelict of the Bibber is bottom up five miles off Murrell Inlet, below Little River, S. C., southeast from the Cape Fear bar. The mate and three seamen from the Bibber were taken into Charleston on the 21st. of September and Capt. Sayers and the remaining member of his crew, a negro, were picked up on a piece of wreckage after five days of intense suffering off the Cape Fear bar by the schooner Georgetta Lawrence, which was lying at anchor there. Capt. Hammond and crew of the Dewell are no doubt lost at sea. It will be remembered that the body of a sailor came floating by the Georgetta Lawrence while she was off the bar and this was no doubt one of the crew of the ill-fated Dewell. Capt. Edgar Williams, of the tug Marion, about the same itme, while seeking off the coast, picked up the yawl boat of the Dewell.

The tug Alexander Jones left yesterday for Murrell's Inlet to see what can be done to bring in the derelict of the Bibber if it is found that it will be profitable to tow her in. The Jones also carried Capt. Mark L. Gilbert, of Charleston, S. C., who wants a look over the wreck of the schooner Cassie F. Bronson, which has been abandond on the beach near Little River, S. C.

The tug Rescue, Capt. W. S. Tooker, of the Merritt-Chapman Diving and Wrecking Company, of Norfolk, arrived at Southport yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock with two pontoons and a barge which will be at once put into commission in raising the steamer Atlantic of the Fisheries Company, which was recently sunk in collision with the Clyde Liner Navahoe near the month of the Cape Fear. The work of raising the Atlantic will be undertaken at once as the contract with the owners in New York is for an early completion of the job.

Prominent Salvation Army Officers.

The local post of the Salvation Army, which is growing in numbers and influence in Wilmington each week, has the pleasure of having present with them this week Maj. Elizabeth Barter, Divisional Commander, of Baltimore, and Adjutant Hattie Core, of the same city. Special services are being conducted each night at 8 o'clock in honor of the visit of these distinguished officers. The meetings are held in the armory in the Old Court House building, the last of which will take place this evening at 8 o'clock. The public is cordially invited.

Gone to Inspect Equipment.

Foreman Z. E. Murrell, of the A. C. L. Car Building Shops in this city, left last night for Chicago, Ill., where he will spend four or five weeks in inspecting the building of a lot of new equipment for the Coast Line at the Hicks Locomotive and Car Works, of that city. It is quite an important mission on which Mr. Murrell has gone and his experience nad general ability will guarantee that the company's interests are safeguarded in ever respect.

SENATOR WHYTE SOUNDS THE ALARM.

The Baltimore Sun of Saturday contained a notable interview with the Hon. William Pinkney Whyte, the venerable successor of the late Arthur Pue Gorman in the United States Senate. The Sun thus introduces what the distinguished Maryland statesman said:

"United States Senator William Pinkney Whyte, in a ringing interview yesterday, sounded a vigorous note of warning of the shoals upon which Democracy is drifting. Menaced as it is on all sides, he makes a stirring appeal to the Democrats of the South to shake off their lethargy and face without delay the questions that have been raised, declaring that two years is all too short a period in which to meet and cope with the momentous issues that have now arisen.

"In referring to the nomination of William Randolph Hearst in New York, Senator Whyte quotes from a letter written by Lord Macaulay in 1857, in which a striking prediction applicable to present political conditions in the Empire State is made and in which Macaulay forsees the possible destruction of the republic. The accuracy with which conditions in New York are described in the Macaulay letter written 49 years ago is remarkable. While Senator Whyte does not agree with the dire prophecy of the writer, he sees in Hearstism and Bryanism grave danger for the Democracy."

The Sun's interview with Mr. Whyte was in response to the question of what he thought of the present status of the country, so far as it affects the Democratic party. Mr. Whyte's answer was not one altogether pessimistic but it was a solemn warning to the Democracy to preserve itself from the tendancy of some elements in this country towards socialism and centralization—the antithesis of Democracy, but which some people are attempting to graft on to Democratic principles that cannot possibly offer any healthy cleft for a scion so foreign to it.

Mr. Whyte, speaking specially of the recent nomination of William Randolph Hearst for Governor of New York, speaks out plainly in protest against passing off what Mr. Hearst stands for as Democracy. In his strong and remarkable utterances Mr. Whyte calls attention to the marvelous prediction of Lord Macaulay, the famous British historian, literateur and political philosopher. Lord Macaulay's prediction was contained in a letter which he wrote under date of May 23, 1857, and was as follows:

"The day will come when in the State of New York a multitude of people, none of whom have had more than half a breakfast or expect to have more than half a dinner, will choose a Legislature. Is it possible to doubt what sort of Legislature will be chosen?

"On one side is a statesman preaching patience, respect for vested rights, strict observance of public faith. On the other is a demagogue ranting about the tyranny of capitalists and usurers and asking why anybody should be permited to drink champagne and ride in a carriage when thousands of honest folk are in want of necessaries. Which of the two candidates is likely to be preferred by a workingman who hears his children cry for more bread?

"Either some Cæsar or Napoleon will arise and seize the reins of government with a strong hand or your republic will be as fearlessly plundered and laid waste by the barbarians in the twentieth century as the Roman Empire was in the fifth, with this difference—that the Huns and Vandals who ravaged the Roman Empire, came from without, and that your Huns and Vandals will have been engendered in your own country and by your own institutions."

The venerable Maryland Senator remarkedd that it had been suggested that Hearst's nomination may be the precursor of the doom portrayed in Macaulay's famous letter. Mr. Whyte, however, remarked as to the Macaulay prediction:

"The picture is, of course, of a vermillion color and highly overdrawn, and the occurrences it portrays could scarcely materialize in a dozen generations; but no thoughtful man can fail to see the dangerous departure from the teachings of the fathers by politicians seeking high political preferment in the political doctrines they maintain to be Democratic and in the policies absolutely pernicious in character, they recommend for adoption."

Among some of the striking sentences in Mr. Whyte's interview we take the following:

"Some have feared that a recent nomination in New York is a sort of stormy petrel giving warning of calamity over the Empire State."

"All good citizens should call a halt on the progress of political affairs toward these manifest dangers—socialism and centralization."

"There never was a time when Democratic principles and policies called so actively on their devotees to defend them from the heresies of professors of Democracy than in the present hour."

Mr. Whyte also pays his respects to the Hon. William J. Bryan and his proposed State and Federal ownership of railroads and said:

"The great State of New York is in the throes of disturbance by the rancor of the factions. There is an irresistible conflict between conservatism and radicalism. There can be seen no olive branch of peace on either side of the chasm. The Democracy of that State has a prodigious task before it in working out its political salvation.

"Turning aside from the great State of New York, where must we look for deliverance in our effort to retrace our steps and get back to the ancient landmarks of true republican government? It is to the South, where the fires of constitutional liberty have not yet died out, that the Democracy must look for a revival of the once time-honored Democratic ritual. There are maxims of wisdom applicable to our institutions that lay deep in the hearts of the Southern people and it needs only the clarion voice of some fearless orator of the South to warm into a flame the embers of those patriotic fires. There has been no more pernicious theory set before the Democracy of the country than Mr. Bryan's proclamation in favor of public ownership of the railroads of the United States.

"Unless the Democracy of the South arouses from its lethargy and faces this question they may find it the only issue in the Presidential campaign, and then woe betide the Democracy!"

It is not worth while to be pessimistic, but thousands upon thousands will agree with Senator Whyte that the Dtmocratic party is passing through a critical period. Certainly the old line Democrat is a painful watcher of the signs of the times. The Star has spoken along this line before and some time ago, having in view the political upheaval already evident, made this remark:

"There are strong indications that there will be a political revolution in 1908, the like of which has never been known, or even dreamed of, in this country. Already there are 'Roosevelt Democrats' and 'Bryan Republicans;' and two years hence there will probably be more political changes than in any campaign during the past quarter of a century. In many of the Northern States both parties are disorganized and demoralized; and no one is wise enough to forecast the alignment of parties in 1908."

Refering once more to Senator Whyte's interview, it may be remarked that, in a season ripe for such a warning, he has said many things to make the Democratic party put on its thinking cap and get serious. The old party has to settle some problems of its own as well as some National problems.

CURRENT COMMENT.

—Some of the papers refer to Butler as Judas. This is an injustice to Judas, for he had the decency to hang himself.—Lexington Dispatch.

—It makes funny reading to people up this way when a candidate in the east has to come out in the papers and announce his opposition to good roads.—Durham Herald.

—Were Butler able to cast a spell of forgetfulness over the people he could easily fool them into believing himself to be a second prophet arisen among them—but he can't.—Charlotte News.

—The Russian bureaucrats are much alarmed at the discovery of sixteen anarchist students carrying bombs on their person The Russian students seem almost as dangerous as North Carolina freshmen in the dark.—Charlotte Observer.

—What the Democrats have done as a party in previous years is ancient history; what large numbers of them, under faorable conditions, will do this year is something else and more important. The party lines as formerly established are, in a large measure, lost sight of and obliterated. There are new lines and really a new party, and the issues thus raised should be dealt with separately and by themselves, without any relation to previous Democratic records, attitudes or arguments. The Republican State ticket happens to be the best, and, indeed the only medium through which Hearst and his supporters can be rebuked. The lines are less between the Democrats and Republicans than between Hearst and his opponents, a fact which ought continually to be borne in mind.—Utica Press.

—The New York World urges the Democrats of New Jersey, who are looking for a candidate for the United States Senate "whose candidacy will appeal to all citizens of the State," to go straight to Princeton and get Grover Cleveland. It is probably too much to expect that at this time when eastern Democracy seems to be drunk on all sorts of poisonous nostrums that the Jerseymen will have patriotism and loyalty to old time Democrats' ideals strong enough to lead them to select a clean, able and healthy-minded a man to represent them as Mr. Cleveland, but it is some consolation to reflect that amid all the confusion created by the opposing isms afflicting the party and the clamors of the noisy demagogues there are some left of sound minds and healthy ideas who stand for truth, principle and public sanity. Grover Cleveland in the United States Senate would at least bear testimony to the fact that while the old ark of the Democratic covenant has been forced at times into very bad company, it is still intact and will in time come into the hands of its own.—Chattanooga Times.

HEALTHY PLANTS

Require the Most Careful Attention as Well as Good Soil.

Did you ever see a rosebush which—despite the most beneficent environment of soil—of sunshine—and of atmosphere,—seemed never to achieve a healthy growth.

A ton of manure will not help a plant that has a canker eating out its heart.

You must destroy the cause before you can remove the effect.

You cannot cure Dandruff and Baldness by rubbing on hair lotions, and rubbing in vaseline, etc.

You must look to the cause of the trouble—it's a germ at the roots of your hair which causes it to fall out.

Newbro's Herpicide destroys the germ, and healthy hair is the sure result.

DON'T EXPERIMENT.

You will Make No Mistake if You Follow This Wilmington Citizen's Advice.

Never neglect your kidneys.

If you have pains in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness, it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are all symptoms of kidney trouble, and you should seek a remedy which is known to cure the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use. No need to experiment. It has cured many stubborn cases in Wilmington. Follow the advice of a Wilmington citizen and be cured yourself.

B. R. King, the well known policeman, residing at 706 Wooster street, says: "I had terrible pain in my back which worked around to my side and in my stomach, so bad at times that it laid me up. I used internal medicines and they did not help me I put on plasters and rubbed with liniment and none of them helped me. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills recommended I got a box of them at Bellamy's drug store. The next day after commencing to use them I noticed relief. Since using two boxes of them I have not had an ache or pain in my back. It is with pleasure that I add my name to those endorsing the claims made for this remedy."

Danger from the Plague.

There's growing danger from the plague of Coughs and Colds that are so prevalent, unless you take Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Mrs. Geo. Wall, of Forest City, Me., writes: "It's a Godsend to people living in climates where coughs and colds prevail. I find it quickly ends them." It prevents Pneumonia and cures La Grippe, gives wonderful relief in Asthma and Hay Fever, and makes weak lungs strong enough to ward off Consumption, Coughs and Colds. 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by all druggists. Trial bottle free.

A Young Mother at 70.

"My mother has suddenly been made young at 70. Twenty years of intense suffering from dyspepsia had entirely disabled her, until six months ago, when she began taking Electric Bitters, which have completely cured her and restored the strength and activity she had in the prime of life," writes Mrs. W. L. Gilpatrick, of Danforth, Me. Greatest restorative medicine on the globe. Sets Stomach, Liver and Kidneys right, purifies the blood, and cures Malaria, Biliousness and Weaknesses. SPIRITS TURPENTINE

—A special from Asheville, Oct. 7: Special Detective Frank Jordan, of the Asheville division of the Southern Railway, returned from Hendersonville Friday, where he has been attending Superior Court, and where also he succeeded in producing sufficient evidence to convict John Francis, a negro boy 15 years old, of an attempt to wreck a passenger train. The boy was sentenced to the State prison for a term of four years and also ordered to pay a fine of $20. The undoing of Francis was due entirely to the boy's desire to see a train wreck.

—Winston-Salem special, Oct. 7,—President George H. Houser, of the Forsyth County Fair Association, says that while the expenses of the fair this week were larger than the receipts, the association proposes paying premiums and met all other obligations. While the weather was disappointing, the fair management is by no means discouraged. It was decidedly the best fair yet pulled off and it has already been decided to make extensive improvements at Piedmont Park and to give a fair next year that will be a credit not only to Winston-Salem and Forsyth, but to the entire piedmont section. The association will hold a meeting at an early date to discuss plans for the future.

—Fayetteville special, Oct. 7: United States Senator Overman Friday evening delivered an address in the court room, introduced gracefully by H. L. Cook, Esq., at the invitation of County Chairman J. H. Myrover, who was absent on the campaign until late last night. There was a fine crowd present, and they were amply repaid by a powerful address in review of national politics by the eloquent junior Senator. Thes peech, every one feels has done good here.

—Winston-Salem special Oct. 7: The leaf tobacco sales the past week have been among the largest in the history of the local market. Double sales yesterday lasted until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, which was something unusual for Saturday. Much of the weed sold during the week has been damaged, caused by so much wet weather. Notwithstanding this fact prices are holding up remarkably well.

—Asheville Special, Oct. 7: Simp Dogan, of Hendersonville, said to be one of the wealthiest negroes in western North Carolina, was convicted at this week's term of Superior Court of Henderson county of receiving stolen goods and sentenced to three years in the penitentiary and to pay all costs in the case. The evidence against Dogan was conclusive. The case was worked up by Special Detective Frank Jordan, of the Southern, and Station Agent C. S. Fulbright, of Hendersonville. Dogan was accused of stealing a trunk containing articles valued at and proven to be worth $326. The theft occurred in July, 1905, and not until nine months after did the officers secure sufficient evidence to warrant the arrest of Dogan.

—Mayor Atkinson, of Hamlet, sprung a surprise upon the citizens of Hamlet Friday when he posted the following ordinance, which was passed by the town commissioners at their regular monthly meeting Wednesday of this week: "Whereas, the laws of the State of North Carolina require that citizens between the ages of 18 and 45 shall be required to perform road service in town, as well as in the country, we find it necessary to call upon our citizens to perform such duties, and to have our streets and sidewalks cleaned and repairedd. The chief of police is instructedd to notify all parties between the ages of 18 and 45 to assemble and perform such duties, or pay $1 per day each day they are absent."

—Salisbury special, Oct. 7: Things political have the boards and as the days end the accounting comes. The congressional fight seems to be the palaestra of the nation and Rowan county is the spot where the contestants come to the scratch. Nothing more interesting than the announced attitude of the Republicans towards colored voters has developed this Fall. To the present there has been no effort on the part of the leaders to get the colored man into politics; on the contrary, they have declared them out and the Republican party immaculately white. Neither have the Democrats raised this issue and the move of Blackburn in the State convention for almost indefinite disfranchisement seemed to put the question without the realm of politics this year. But there is a strange story out to-day and it is a skillful fabrication if it is not true, that the Republicans do not expect Blackburn to win and are depending upon a novel contest to unseat Hackett in the event of his election. The story goes that the negroes will be tendered at the coming registration and, if they fail to pass, the qualifications made requisite in the constitutional amendment, beyond which Blackburn has gone ten bow shots, the election will be contested and the validity of the amendment will be put to the courts.

—High Point special, Oct. 7: At 6:30 o'clock to-night Charles Murphy, white, shot Police Officer Walter S. Lovelace in the back and was immediately arrested. The shot was from a .38 caliber pistol and struck the right shoulder, lodging just back of the front breast bone. The wound is not necessarily a fatal one, unless blood poison should result. Officer Lovelace was attacked without any provocation whatever. Three men were standing in front of the Commercial National Bank, all being under the influence of whiskey. Officer Frank Sechrest had just arrested one of them and had advanced a hundred yards in the direction of the city jail when Murphy pulled down on Officer Lovelace, who had started home, after admonishing Murphy to be quiet and go home before he got into trouble. Murphy waited until the officer's back was turned and shot twice. Only one shot, however, took effect, the other nearly grazing the officer's face as he wheeled around after being struck. Officer Lovelace could easily have shot Murphy dead, but instead wheeld around and started towards his antagonist to disarm him. Dolan Sheppard, a white man standing close by, jumped at once to the rescue and succeeded in disarming Murphy, who was spirited to the city jail at once. The other of the trio who were disturbing the peace was not too drunk to take legal bail, which he lost no time in doing, and has not been apprehended.

—Lexington special, Oct. 7.—Superintendent R. H. Eubanks of Lane Brothers' Company & Jones, contractors, was shot and killed instantly this morning at the railway camp about two miles north of Lexington by a negro employe named Oscar Gaddy. From all accounts the killing was totally without provocation, and all Lexington and surrounding country is in great excitement. A posse of two hundred or more men with guns are in pursuit of Gaddy, who made his escape immediately after the killing. Supt. Eubanks heard some shooting going on in one of the negro huts this morning and went to see what was the matter. Upon arriving at the door of the hut, which was filled with negroes, he said: "Who is that doing that shooting down here?" Gaddy was lying on a bed with the pistol in his hands, and replied: "It's me and I will shoot you, G—d— you!" Then Supt. Eubanks advanced into the hut, having in his hand a small cane. Without saying anything further, Gaddy fired into Mr. Eubank's face, the ball taking effect just above the mouth, coursing upward through the brain, and killing Mr. Eubanks instantly. After firing the fatal shot Gaddy jumped out at the door, dropped his pistol and fled as fast as he could. He was clad in shirt and trousers, having on neither coat, shoes nor hat. He was seen later running in a northerly direction along the public road.

Our Millinery Department has proven tis value to you by the very work we speak of and more new ideas find their introduction here than any other store in this city can boast of. And with all we charge but moderately, never more than other stores, nine times out of ten much less.

ABOUT REGISTRATION.

The attention of the voters of New Hanover is called to the following letter from the Chairman of the Board of Electors to the registrars of the county:

Wilmington, N. C., Oct. 6, 1906.

"Dear Sir:—I wish to advise you, as Registrar of your precinct in New Hanover county, that registration in the last primary held under the rules of the Democratic party, is not a sufficient registration to enable one to vote in the general election. You must bear in mind that the recent primary was strictly a party primary and has nothing to do with the registration of voters for the general election to be held on November 6th, except that the registration books for this primary were largely made up from the registration books for the general election for 1904. Hence, you will inform the voters that if their names do not appear on the registration books for the general election for 1904 they will be required to register again before they vote, but if their names are on the book for 1904 they will not have to register, as no new registration is required.

"It is important that voters should understand that the primary recently held by the Democratic party, is in no way connected with the general election to be held for all voters irrespective of party. In making up your new registration books you will be guided in no way by the primary registration.

"J. O. CARR,
"Chairman County Board of Election."

The last case tried during the day was a case of George S. Baxter & Co., against Capt. J. W. Harper in which the plaintiff sued for the recovery of $125 on some cross-ties picked up on Carolina Beach after a storm about four years ago. The plaintiff claimed the ties were from the wreck of a vessel off the coast. The defendant claimed that the ties were not identified. Judgment was given for Capt. Harper, who was represented by Bellamy & Bellamy and Russell & Goodman.

When court took a recess for the day the case of the Murchison National Bank against J. E. Boyd had been called. The plaintiff is suing on collateral furnished by Boyd to the defunct Merchants' and Farmers' Bank, of Dunn, N. C. The case will be resumed upon the convening of court to-day at 9:30 A. M.

PAWNEE BILL SHOWS.

Coming to Wilmington Next Monday For Two Exhibitions.

Between the "cowboy" and the "vaquero" there is but a slight line of demarcation. The former is generally an American, hunted from youth to the vicissitudes and dangers of his avocation, and in the latter's veins flows the blood of the Mexican, or it may be that of the half-breed. The methods of the two in their work upon the cattle ranges are similar, and their associations have much in common. Your real vaquero, however, is much more of a study and sartorial swell than his strenuous colleague. He is fond of gaudy clothes and quite often the sombrero he wears, rich with its fanciful designs in gold and silver bullion, represents an outlay up into the hundreds of dollars. Rich embroidered jackets and high-heeled riding boots equipped with enormous spurs are also to his especial liking and help to make of the genuine Mexican vaquero an interesting and picturesque type.

True types of this particular class will be seen at Pawnee Bill's Wild West, which will soon exhibit here, and the men will illustrate methods pursued by them in connection with their life and calling, together with feats of horsemanship for which they are justly renowned.

No catch penny device, nor gambling in the most modified form will be tolerated in or around the Pawnee Bill shows. Crooks who are foolish enough to try to attend this show will be arrested on sight.

No sickly women or weak men will ever regret taking Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. It's brought happiness to thousands of homes. Tea or Tablets, 35 cents. J. H. Bunting Drug Co. **

A Glass Eyes That Moves.

Mr. Z. V. Hill, of the Lagrance section, was in the city Saturday sporting a glass eye. The eye was pronounced by a party who knew about such things as the best match in color and fit he ever saw. The glass eye, contrary to the usual custom, moves when the other does. Dr. H. O. Hyatt, by this peculiar method of operating, always secures this result. Our readers will remember Mr. Hill was operated on a few weeks ago by Dr. Hyatt—Goldsboro Weekly Record, Sept. 15th, 1906.

The Star takes pleasure in reproducing the above, as Dr. Hyatt is now located in Wilmington, occupying Dr. Galloway's old office, having bought his practice and good will. He comes to us with an established reputation.

Crescent Cigar Store.

Mr. M. D. Bright, of Wilmington, N. C., has bought half interest in the Crescent Cigar Store and both he and Mr. W. L. Bissinger, have located the business at No. 209 Princess street and have an up-to-date cigar store and pool room. They will be pleased to have all their friends come and see them and they will be treated with extreme courtesy.

Yours very truly,

PRESCRIPTIONS.

A Medical Explanation of Why They Are Written In Latin.

The use of Latin by physicians in prescription writing is commonly regarded as a harmless survival of mediævalism. Occasionally a lay writer suggests its abandonment. In commenting on a recent note to this effect in a daily paper, which advocates the compulsory use of English in prescriptions, the Druggists' Circular and Chemical Gazette takes occasion to make a strong defense of the time honored practice. Says this paper:

"Suppose the sapient writer quoted, whose utterances may sound all right to those who know no more of his subjects than he does, should fall sick and his physician should decide that the one thing needful to save his life was Geranium robertianum. If there were a law preventing the doctor from prescribing in Latin he would have to choose one of the upward of a dozen English names for this drug. Suppose he chose 'redshanks' and so wrote the word in his prescription. When the druggist went to prepare the medicine he would find that 'redshanks' was the English name of at least four entirely different plants—namely, the one already mentioned, Polygonium amphibium, Polygonium persicaria and Rumex acetosa.

"As with redshanks so with hundreds of other drugs. Aaron's beard may be Cotinus continus, Cymbalaria eymbalaria or Saxifraga sarmentosa. Of snakeroots there are numberless kinds. Suppose the English writing doctor wanted to be sure of getting the right kind, so specified black snakeroot. Then is the druggist to dispense Cimicifuga racemosa, Asarum canadense or Sanicula marilandica?"

An Odd Tug of War.

Screw propellers, like most other inventions, had great difficulty in getting recognition from authority. For instance, Sir William Symonds, surveyor and principal designer to the British admiralty, could not be brought to believe in them. He declared that steamships of any sort were "monstrous" and that the screw was impossible. The day came when choice between paddle wheels and screw propellers had to be made. The naval authorities tied two ships stern to stern, and when the screw propelled vessel had triumphed over the paddle steamer in this ludicrous tug of war the lords of the admiralty felt justified in modeling the British navy anew.

Young, but Wise.

A little girl of four was spreading butter on a cracker on the luncheon cloth when her grandfather—at whose table she was—remonstrated with her, telling her that was not the proper place to do it. She never lifted her eyes, but went calmly on with the operation, and when it was finished and she took up the cracker to eat she said quietly to nobody in particular, "Men don't always know what's best."

Its Source.

"How do you suppose the report ever started that you had an execution in your house?" "I don't know, unless it started from the fact that we were hanging some wall paper."—Baltimore American.

This day which thou fearest so much and which thou callest the last is the birthday of an eternity.—Seneca.

Her Reference.

"I am not quite satisfied with your references," said the lady of the house to the cook applying for work. "Nayther am I, mum, but they're the best I could get."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

MR. JARED BARTON leaned his gray head wearily on his hand.

"There they go again," he said aloud in a distressed tone. "And before she came here they were thicker than thieves. I wish I could find a way out of this mess."

The angry voices which had been the cause of this soliloquy became angrier and nearer:

"And if I ever see you looking at her again with that sick cat expression on your mug I'll injure it so you can't grin for a week."

"That's Dick," said the father, laughing in spite of himself at this threat.

"Bess says she's a bully nurse," said the other voice. "I'd have good care."

"Bert always gets ahead. He's just what I was when I was his age," chuckled the old man in the library. "Great Scott! They'll kill each other yet! Here, you young hounds!" he yelled, rushing out into the hall. "You pick yourself up and get out of this. If you've got to fight, you go out behind the barn and fight till one or the other of you gets killed. Look out there, Dick!"

Dick had his brother down and was sitting on him. He had just raised his arm to administer a good blow on the upturned face of Bert when his father caught his arm and dragged him off.

Bert did not take the trouble to get up, but lay flat on his back, looking up at his brother with a wicked one sided grin.

"Get up, Bert," ordered his father, and he shuffled to his feet. Very suddenly Mr. Barton's patience gave out. Catching Bert by the collar and retaining his grip on Dick's arm, he shook both boys until his face grew purple, and, letting them go, he leaned against the banisters gasping for breath. The boys made no attempt to resist; they merely grew utterly limp. They were twins, about seventeen, and small for their age, with fair hair and dreamy gray eyes. All of the mischief perpetrated in the particular suburb in which they lived was sooner or later tracked to their door or to the doors of their innocent accomplices. They had one redeeming feature; until a few months before this they had clung together through thick and thin. When one was punished the other was punished before the rest of the family could live with him. It seemed, sometimes, to their anguished parents as if the twins could read each other's mind.

While their mother was alive she had been able to control them to some extent, and her last words were, "Keep the twins together." At that time they were so thick "a knife blade couldn't be slid between them," as Mr. Barton remarked. But that was some time ago. Now—

"I'm ashamed of you," he said wearily and went back into his library, leaving the twins glaring at each other. Presently they began to look sheepish, and then they grinned and stuck out their hands at the same time. The argument was understood to be closed for the present.

Mr. Barton watched them go down the street together, arm in arm, and gave a sigh of relief. He knew he would have an hour or two of peace.

While he stood musing at the window his little daughter Bess and her governess came around the corner and in at the gate.

"There's the bone of contention now," he said. "What does she mean by encouraging those young whelps to fall in love with her?"

His daughter Bess bounced into the room waving an envelope in her hand.

"Letter from Bob," she whooped. "Hurry up and read 'er!"

"Quietly, Bessie!" said Miss Gray, who had entered behind the little girl. "When you have finished visiting with your father, come upstairs and I will help you with your French for tomorrow."

Mr. Barton took Bess on his knee and opened his letter. It was characteristic. He was out in Colorado "seeing the world" and having the "time of his life;" was "well and happy and ready to come home at any time; love to Bess and the boys and his regards to the young lady who had succeeded in making individuals out of the Siamese twins."

Bess ran away presently, and Mr. Barton let his thoughts wander out to his eldest son. Bob had been graduated from Harvard the summer before and had come home a little more enthusiastic about Boston than he should have been, knowing his father's prejudice against the place. The very first thing he had done on his arrival home was to announce his engagement to a girl from Boston.

Now, it had never entered Mr. Barton's head that Bob could be such a fool as to fall in love at twenty-three, and the cool announcement took away his breath.

"Huh!" he snorted. "You precocious baby! Pretty husband you'd make, wouldn't you? Bessie's rag dolls could marry and be about as dignified as you'd be in such a fix."

Bob merely grinned and turned away the edge of the old man's wrath.

"It isn't because I think you would not make money enough. You're a stick of the same kind of a wood pile your father used to chop. You go out west for a year, and I'll pay the bills, and I'll bet you anything you like you'll come back cured."

Bob thought for awhile, and then he said slowly:

"Dad, I'll bet you currency to cookies that I can beat you at this game." And he departed cheerfully for the west.

Mr. Barton thought of all this rather complacently, and then he sat down and wrote a letter to Bob. It was even more characteristic than the letter from his son.

My Dear Bob—"The time has come," as the walrus said, "to speak of many things." I'm in the devil of a fix, and I guess it's your turn to help out your poor old dad. Besides, you got me into it. It was you, with your precious Boston ideas, that got me to engage a governess for my tomboy girl. I blessed you profusely at first, and, as far as Bess goes, I still do. She is getting quite tame. But the Siamese twins, as you call your brothers, have set up a three ring circus, and I have to go around watching the animals so they won't bite each other and die of hydrophobia. I'm getting a little too old to play the role of ringmaster with any success. "And it's all on account of Eliza," as we used to sing.

This governess whom I got on your advice is a very engaging young lady, and, in fact, she has engaged the affections of those two pups. I don't blame 'em very much, either. That's the worst of it. She says she's twenty-one, but she doesn't look a day over eighteen. A cunning little brown eyed trick you could hide up your sleeve. Has an A. B. from Wellesley and claims she was born and bred in Boston, which is really all I have against her.

The twins began by hating her, and I had to give 'em a couple of thrashings apiece to make 'em stop playing unheard of practical jokes. Now I have to thrash 'em to keep 'em from loving her too strenuously.

It's getting too much for me. If you expect to keep my gray hairs out of the grave, you come home and distract their attention. You always could manage them, because you did not have to live with them. This is both a prayer and a command. Come home and help your helpless DAD.

P. S.—If you still feel that you must marry, marry the governess. She's the best I ever saw—from Boston too. Privately, I think she was born in Chicago, and Wellesley is all that ails her. Perhaps she knows you. I haven't asked her.

He sent this letter and at dinner that evening looked around his table with a complacent and chuckling satisfaction. The twins looked thin and pathetic and tried not to eat much. Miss Gray was demure and smiling in a dainty dinner gown, and the holden, Bess, had her hair ribbons properly tied and both stockings pulled up. Dinner was peaceful, but there was a tempest afterward, and Mr. Barton sent the twins to bed at 9 o'clock. He was unusually gentle and patient with them.

After they had made up for the night they talked about this. They did not like the look of it.

"Did you see how he grinned at her? Just like an old goat! If we don't settle who's to have her and get busy, he'll end things by getting her himself," said Bert.

"Make a pretty stepmother. Rather prettier than her stepsons, I should say," was the insinuating reply.

Two days later Mr. Barton came to lunch with a telegram in his hand.

"I've good news," he said. "Bob's coming Thursday."

Bess gave a whoop and a jump and grabbed the telegram, which Bert snatched from her hand before she had had a chance to read a word.

"Hurrah!" yelled Dick, doing a war dance specialty.

Miss Gray, with a very red face, tried to keep Bess from dancing a jig on the table, and Mr. Barton, seeing her evident annoyance, spoke apologetically. "When you become acquainted with Bob you'll not wonder quite so much at this fiendish joy. He's rather a good sort, if he is like his dad. Shouldn't wonder if you'd like him," he continued complacently. "He has a habit of being fond of Boston."

"I shall do my best to like him," she said prettily to the old man, and as she ran upstairs she said to herself, "I'll see that the Boston habit becomes settled."

Thursday came. All the family but the governess went to the train, and Bob was almost carried home on the family shoulders. Dinner had been postponed for his coming, and Miss Gray waited rather nervously in the dining room. She had donned her prettiest dinner gown, and her eyes were very bright and her cheeks very pink.

The twins came in first and stood to one side to see what Bob would say to their divinity. In a moment they leaned, weak and helpless, against each other, and then they feebly left the room. Bob, not waiting for the introduction Mr. Barton seemed trying to make, walked across the room and calmly kissed the governess.

Mr. Barton grew slowly, darkly purple. "So you're in this, too, you, you"—

"Go easy, dad!" said Bob. "I bet you currency to cookies I'd beat you at this game. You're skinned. The currency is mine. Buck up, dad, and salute your daughter. As for the twins, they can't say they don't like their sister."

GALE RAGING ON GREAT LAKES

Steamer Wrecked and Three of Crew Lost.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Houghton, Mich., October 8.—A terrific gale is raging on Lake Superior to-night. The barge Pasadena, in tow of the steamer Glastone, was blown on the rocks and is a total wreck. Three of her crew were drowned while seven others reaches shore after a terrible battle with the surf. A number of vesels had been sheltered in Lily Pond harbor but some of these started out in the face of the storm and much anxiety is felt for their safety. The Pasadema was bound down with ore from Two Harbor. The Gladstone made the harbor safely.

At Portland, Me., yesterday government craft were busy following a report that the mysterious yacht Floric, said to have 33 Chinamen on board to be smuggled into the United States from New Foundland, would attempt a landing near there yesterday. The revenue cutter Dexter was sent cruising among the islands of Casco bay, while all available light vessels were started out to guard the coast.

TO SEARCH FOR DIAMOND ISLE

Mysterious Voyage from England Not Duplicated in Any Story of Romance—Diamonds Cover Unknown Island.

(Brooklyn Citizen.)

The good ship Xema has left Cardiff, Wales, on a mysterious voyage not duplicated in any story of romance. She goes out on a search for a wonderful island where diamonds cover the ground. If the cruise of the Xema is successful, diamonds will become as cheap in the market as moonstones.

The treasure hunt is not being engineered by a few half crazy, get-rich-quick people, but by a liability company, specially formed, that includes among its shareholders eight British peers, fourteen army officers, thirty-six naval officers and several bank directors and stock brokers. The Earl of Albemarle, the Marquis of Tweedale, Lord Marcus Beresford, General Sir William Nicholson and Rear Admiral Sir Barclay Milne are some of those interested.

The island was first discovered years ago by a Captain Jones, who is now dead. Captain Jones brought home several specimens. Experts pronounced them of the finest quality, and of having come from no known diamond deposits. Captain Jones had made an accurate chart and was going to return, when he died.

Only one man on the Xema knows where the supposed diamond island is located. He is Captain Jackson, of the expedition. He has the chart in a sealed package which will not be opened until after the Xema has coaled at St. Helena, her last stopping place. The island is rumored to be south of the Cape of Good Hope.

The Xema has aboard machinery and explosives for unearthing diamonds. She carries a complete engineering staff for mine working, headed by Mr. William Griffith, formerly associated with the De Beers trust.

The De Beers Company, it is reported, has chartered a fast ship to follow the Xema and to report immediately if anything is discovered. The Xema carries 10,000 rounds of ammunition and sixty guns and revolvers, in case there should be any attempt to steal the island from the discoverers.

There is the possibility of complications as to the real ownership of the diamonds, if any, on the island. A Mrs. Jones, at Cardiff, claims to be the widow of the discoverer, and that the island belongs to her.

SERIOUS CHARGE TO BE PROBED

War Ships May Be Blown Up Because of Defective Flues Furnished by Steel Company—Crew's Lives Endangered.

(Brooklyn Citizen.)

That "during and before 1904 tubing of an inferior quality was knowingly placed in the boilers of the battleships Georgia and Maine and the cruisers Pennsylvania and Colorado by the Shelby Steel Company" is the allegation of Frank L. Emmett, a former employee of that subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation.

Emmet declares that, at the instigation of his superiors, he stole stamps from the Government Inspector's desk and placed them on the inferior tubing, and his reason for telling the story now after so many months of risk the crews of those vessels, is his apprehension that they may be blown up at any time.

Whatever Emmett's motive is, the matter is of so much consequence as to call for the investigation which the Navy Department has set on foot; for, it is quite within the possibilities that the contractors finding, as he says, that they could not deliver the sound tubing on time, substituted the defective tubing, although it is hardly supposable on account of the risk of the bursting of the latter.

If, however, the story should be found trustworthy, it will be analogous to that told some years ago of the attempt of the Carnegie Steel Company to impose on the government by delivering defective armor that the present one relating to defective tubing is true also. The investigation ordered should be impartial and rigid.

ITALIAN LABOR IN THE SOUTH

Agent of Department of Commerce and Labor Drawn Here to Investigate Colonies—Will Gather Facts for Congress.

(New Orleans Picayune.)

Victor Clark, of the Department of Commerce and Labor, is making a tour of the Southern States to study conditions of Italian labor, and he arrived here last night, after looking into conditions in the Yazoo Delta and in Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

It is probable that the next Congress will make some changes in the immigration laws, and, in anticipation of that, the Department of Commerce and Labor is making a careful study of the conditions and gathering statistics relating to the immigration of various nationalities in order that Congress may be furnished with such data as it may require. As far as the Italian is concerned, it is probable that Congress will want to know just what are the conditions in the various sections of the country, and, as for the South, what part the Italian is likely to play in its economic development. If the settlers here ultimately become a desirable part of the citizenship, there will be much in their favor and Italian immigration will be encouraged. Another question is whether this immigration should be encouraged to settle in the country or be allowed to settle in large cities, as it is now prone to do.

Speaking about his observations in Texas Arkansas, Oklahoma and the Yazoo Delta, Mr. Clark said that he found the conditions of the Italian immigrant very good. There is a great scarcity of labor in all of these sections. He found that the Italian was not disposed to work long as a laborer. He soon became either a tenant or a small land owner. It was into the conditions of these tenants and small land owners that he particularly inquired, and he found that they were generally doing very well.

Mr. Clark came here for the arrival to-day of the Italian immigrant ship Luzio, from Palermo. While he is here he will see Dr. Luigi Villari, Special Agent of the Italian Government for the study of immigration in America. He will leave in the latter part of the week for New York, but he will return here within a few weeks and resume his study of Italian immigration conditions in the Southern States.

Did you ever stop to think that you spent one-third of your time in bed, and that during this third you are recuperating from the wear and tear of the other two-thirds? How important is it then to always sleep in a good bed? Those who have reduced life to a science are careful of thisand make it a point to stop only where comfortable sleeping quarters can be had.

The above illustration shows one of the bed rooms of the Greensboro Keeley Institute, the management of which believes thoroughly that cleanliness is next to Godliness. They do not stop here, but have added neatness and that air of general comfort which in themselves bring rest to the weary. In the treatment for the liquor or drug addictions, tobacco habit or nerve exhaustion, a regular and orderly life forms an important feature in the scientific rebuilding of the nervous system, and sound, restful sleep is, by far, the most important natural auxiliary of any recuperative system. Recognizing this, the Greensboro Sanitarium has neglected no detail for the comfort of its patients. Almost every esential convenience which the ingenuity of man has devised is here provided. This institution did not start here, though; it first acquired premises where nature could assist science in the prosecution of this great work. It bought "Blandwood," one of the most beautiful sites in the entire South, and here, in the center of a grove of immense oaks, surrounded by well kept lawns, evergreens and beautiful flowers, it built a handsome annex to the historic old Morehead mansion, where apartments can be had en suite, with private baths, steam heat, electric lights, and in fact all the comforts and conveniences of the thoroughly modern home. The place contains spacious halls and porches, parlors, (with special accommodations for ladies), club-rooms, outdoor and indoor amusements, and here are provided books, music and games to suit every taste. Five minutes from Greensboro's principal thoroughfare and yet with grounds so extensive that both city and country life are afforded. A more delightful resort could hardly be found, and patients sojourn here with profit and pleasure. The treatment is not an experiment but has been recognized as a scientific specialty for over a quarter century. It is endorsed by leading men of all classes and thousands of voluntary letters received testify to the wonderful good that has been accomplished.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, October 8.—The cotton market was very nervous and unsettled to-day with prices ruling well under the closing figures. The close was a little up from the lowest on covering with the tone steady with a net decline of 15 to 27 points. Sales for the day were estimated at 300,000 bales. The market opened weak at a decline of 15 to 18 points as a result of disappointing cables and better weather, combined with reports of more liberal spot offerings frim the South in Liverpool. There was an active demand at the decline with some Southern and European buying and prices rallied slightly after the opening but soon weakened and while there was two or three other reactions during the middle sesion, the general tendency was downward until December sold at 10.20; Jan. 10.28 and March at 10.44, or 25@28 points net lower. The Western bel t forecast calling for colder weather in Northwestern Texas and the territories tomorrow helped to rally prices slightly toward the close and the large exports seemed to act as an offset to the increasing port receiuts.

Cotton receipts at the ports to-day, 68,674 bales, against 47,916 last week, and 53,059 last year. For the week 375,000 against 311,868 last week and 347,302 last year. Today's receipts at New Orleans 11,229 bales, against 7,385 last year, and at Houston 16,111 bales, against 21,702 last year.

Why Timothy Grass Is So Called.

The forage grass known to the farmers of the United States as timothy is so called because first introduced and extensively cultivated in this country by one Timothy Hanson, a farmer of Maryland. This species of grass is well known in England and all over western continental Europe, where it is grown extensively by most farmers between the Mediterranean and the North seas. The botanical name of this grass is Phleum pratense. Timothy is known in the British isles as cat's tail grass and in several of our eastern states as herd, or herd's, grass. It was grown in large quantities in Maryland and Pennsylvania long before a spear of it had ever been seen in England, the first seed of it ever seen in the last named country being imported from America.

The "If" Is Rather Important.

Here's something that may save your life when a bull gets after you: When a bull charges, just before the final lurch he shuts his eyes, and if you have the presence of mind to stand stock still until he is about two or three feet from you all you have to do is to step aside, and he misses you. Any child with sufficient presence of mind to do this can let a bull charge all day with perfect safety. This is not a new thing, as it is one of the secrets of the bullfighter in the countries where the sport is practiced. The bullfighters say that a cow does not do this, and they would never try any such tricks with a mad cow.

NEW FOUNDLAND IS IN A RAGE

People and Government Dissatisfied With Settlement of Fisheries Dispute.

CALL IT YANKEE BARGAIN

Talk of Separation from Great Britain. British Government Would Coerce One of Her Colonies. English Press Disgruntled.

By Wire to the Morning Star.

Washington, October 8.—The news that the modus vivendi had finally been signed, was conveyed to Secretary Root in a cablegram from Ambassador Reid to-day, announcing that the British government had accepted the terms of the modus vivendi relating to the New Foundland fisheries. No announcement has been received at the State Department concerning the proposed resignation of the officials of the New Foundland government on account of the new agreement. Some facts relative to the New Foundland government and the fisheries were stated in which it appears that the British government has been very much embarrassed during the negotiations on account of the demands of New Foundland.

The New Foundland government is under the control of the Merchant Fishermen of the island, those who buy, cure, and sell the fishing products. They oppose any American fishing rights, including those guaranteed by the treaty of 1818, and are dissatisfied with any arrangement that the British government makes to carry out the terms of that treaty. The real fishermen of the island are not in harmony with the restrictions of the New Foundland government, such as denying the privilege of selling bait and of allowing the fishermen to take employment on the fishing vessels. The fishermen themselves desire these privileges but it interferes with the plans of the merchant fishermen. The New Foundland government has no real responsibility in the way of obligations. That devolves upon the British government.

Great Britain, it is asserted, would not coerce any of her colonies to remain under the British flag if they were determined to withdraw but at the same time desires to keep all the colonies and to keep them on terms of amity in this matter is commended by the American authorities as being fair and reasonable but all negotiations have been hampered by the New Foundland government.

Colonists Are Red Hot.

St. Johns, N. F., October 8.—Popular anger against the modus vivendi arranged by the United States and British governments relating to the New Foundland herring fisheries is growing. There is a general feeling that the compromise arrived at was a back down on the part of the British ministry.

Archibald Howley, the Roman Catholic primate, speaking yesterday at a parochial festival declared the modus videnvi a shameful betrayal of the colony's interests and advocated agitation throughout the colony against it.

Attorney General Morris, speaking at the same function, said that the colonial government was unaware of the terms of the modus vivendi but it had done everything within its power to protect the colony.

To-day, The Telegram, the premier's organ, ascribes the modus vivendi to the craven policy of timid Downing Street Bureaucrats and expresses the hope that the New Foundland government will show the spirit of determination and teach little Englanders like Lord Elgin and Winston Churchhill, the same lesson that the colonist of Natal taught them when they tried to ride roughshod over the colony a few months ago.

London, October 8.—Following the lead of the New Foundland newspapers whose opinions on the modus vivendi as have been cabled here, some of the evening papers here today denounce the agreement as a "one sided bargain" between the United States and Great Britain. The latter, however, it is pointed out here, made every effort to secure the colony's consent to an equitable arrangement. Great Britain was ready a fortnight ago to conclude the agreement as signed, believing it to be the fairest, but waited until the last moment, for New Foundland to accept the settlement, which was considered necessary in order to prevent trouble on the fishing grounds.

TROOPS SAILING TO OCCUPY CUBA

Two Transports Left Newport News Yesterday ond Others Will Depart Today.

Ill Feeling at Cienfuegos Causes Secretary Taft Uneasiness—Rebels in All But One Province Have Finally Dispersed.

Newport News, Va., October 8.—The transport Niagara sailed from this point to-day having on board the first battalion of the 28th Infantry. The Monterey is scheduled to sail this afternoon with headquarters, band and two battalions of the 17th Infantry and hospital corps. The Seneca is loading two battalions, and headquarters band of the 27th Infantry and will sail to-morrow. The transport Potomac carrying the baggage of the 27th Infantry and Fifth Infantry and animals is also leading and will sail to-morrow.

The Eleventh Cavalry of Fort Des Moines, Iowa, and the 11th Infantry of Fort D. A. Russell, Wyoming, will arrive to-day and the 17th and 18th companies, of Mountain Artillery, from Vancouver, Washington, are expected to-night. By to-morrow night it is expected that all of the troops will have arrived.

Norfolk, Va., October 8.—The United States weather bureau reports the arrival in Hampton Roads of the troopship Zelandia bound for Newport News to take soldiers to Cuba.

Amnesty for Murderers.

Havana, October 8.—The factional ill feeling that has existed at Cienfuegos since the presidential campaign of 1905 resulting in the death of Congressman Villuendas, and Chief of Police Illance, increased during the recent revolution to such an extent that the return of the rebels from the field is causing a dangerous condition which the provisional government considers it is highly necessary to end. In view of this Governor Taft to-night sent Consul General Stejnhart to Cienfuegos with authority to take any action he may deem advisable in the interest of a reconciliation of political differences there and inaugurating a fresh start toward a reasonable degree of mutual good will between the malcontents.

Governor Taft believes that it is particularly necessary that the vexed local situation in Cienfuegos shall be settled before the issuance of an amnesty decree, since he has determined to include in the amnesty all persons charged with complicity in the Viluendas murder. He holds that if he yielded to the importunities of many residents of Cienfuegos and allowed those charged with the crime to be brought to trial, it would result in the event of their acquittal by a judge belonging to the Moderate party, in re-opening the quarrel over the incident in a more violent manner than ever.

Governor Taft has also decided to include in the general amnesty all persons alleged to have been connected with the Guanabacoa outrage of last February, when several rural guardsmen were wantonly killed in their quarters by a gang of night marauders. He is unwilling to furnish any opportunity for the re-opening of old sores in either of these notorious matters, and will insist in the effectual closing now of all incidents which are the cause of former political strife.

The governors of all provinces, excepting Santa Clara, report that the disbandment of both volunteers and insurgents is complete and Santa Clara reports good progress. These reports are confirmed by mesages to marine headquarters.

Treasurer Roloff to-day counting the contents of the treasury which amount to $12,000,000, mostly in American gold.

Aldredo Zayas, the Liberal leader, called at the palace.

COL. T. H. BAIN DEAD.

Inspector General of State National Guard—Immigration Delegates.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 2.—Adjutant General T. R. Robertson, General Carle A. Woodruff and Colonel W. L. McGhee went to Goldsboro this afternoon to represent the North Carolina National Guard at the funeral of Colonel T. H. Bain, Inspector General, to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock. Colonel Bain died last night. He had been in failing health several months and suffered a stroke of paralysis a few days ago. He had been Inspector General for six years, receiving his commission from Governor Aycock. He was continued in office by Governor Glenn. He had been in the State Guard service twenty-five years.

Governor Glenn announced this afternoon the appointment of twenty-one delegates from North Carolina to the Southern Immigration and Quarantine Convention at Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 12th-14th. Among them are Col. A. M. Waddell and Hugh MacRae, of Wilmington.

Gaylord's opening will be to-day and to-morrow. Everybody is invited.

GREAT STRIKE ON THE SOUTHERN

Mechanics in Shops From Washington to New Orleans Gone Out.

EIGHT HUNDRED AFFECTED

Employes Demand Increase of 25 Cents Day in Wages, Alleging That Cost of Living Has Unbearably Increased.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Washington, October 8.—The machinists employed on the Southern Railway system, who according to the officials of the road, number about 800, went on strike to-day for an increase of 2½ cents an houd which amounts to 25 cents per day each. The strike was ordered by P. J. Conlin, first vice president of the International Asociation of Machinists, and are employed in this city, but twenone machinists, seven apprentice boys and a number of helpers walked out and all along the line at the various shops the men quietly walked out without any demonstration.

A Stewart, superintendent of the Southern Railway, said to-day:

"The basis of machinists wages paid by the Southern Railway Company is substantially standard in the South. Where inequalities have existed the company has been willing to bring them up to the standard. This has been the subject of discussion with the machinists' committee for sometime past. The machinists have argued that the increase in the cost of living shown by government statistics and by their own experiences, justifies them in expecting a higher basis ceived.

"It has been shown to the machinists that while the earnings from the property have constantly increased in recent years, still from various causes the expenses of operation have also increased and in a greater proportion; with the result taht the company is not now, by any reason of its greater gross earnings, in a better position to increase wages generally to all classes of employes than it has been at any time within the last few years."

Dispatches to the Asociated Press from various points along the system where machinists are employed by the Southern give the number of men out as follows: Atlanta, Ga., 200; Birmingham, Ala., upwards of 100; Knoxville, Tenn., 50 machinists, 75 helpers and apprentices; Spencer, N. C., 500; Selma, Ala., 46; Charleston, S. C., between 50 and 100; Columbia, S. C., 50; Augusta, Ga., 12; Manchester, Va., 60, one man and several apprentices remaining at work; Asheville, N. C., 25; Macon Ga., 12. A dispatch from Richmond says that the strike finds the road rushed with the heaviest demand in its history.

May Strike in Sympathy.

Washington, October 8.—It is said by the Union men that the boilor makers and blacksmiths may join the striking machinists. Mr. Colin said to-night:

"Financially we are able to carry these men on strike three years if necesary. Married men received $7 a week as strike benefit while single men receive $5. We are also able to find better places for the idle men, as we received an order this morning for 200 machinists."

Senator Overman at Lumberton Yesterday—Outlook for Democracy.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Lumberton, N. C., Oct. 8.—Senator Lee S. Overman filled his appointment here to-day. The Court House was comfortably filled, all sections of the county being well represented. Many ladies were also in attendance. For two hours the Senator held the undivided attention of his audience and his speech is pronounced a most able one. While Senator Overman has always had many friends in Robeson, the number is greatly increased by his visit to-day. The cause of Democracy was also greatly strengthened. The Republican nominees have declined a further joint canvass, and have advertised dates and places of their own selection and propose their own campaign. Robeson will give her usual Democratic majority.
